HALCYON RIDGE HEALTH SYSTEM | ENTERPRISE AI ENABLEMENT ADVISORY

From Strategy to Execution

A Healthcare Enterprise AI Advisory Case Study

Document	HRHS-AI-00A	Version 2.1	November 2026	Prepared by: Reginal Campbell, PMP
Classification	Fictional case study. Entry point to the HRHS Enterprise AI Advisory Package.

The premise

Halcyon Ridge Health System (HRHS), a fictional regional health system, is evaluating enterprise AI while managing fragmented capabilities, limited technical readiness, competing technology investments, and constrained engineering capacity. The challenge is not simply selecting an AI strategy. It is determining which direction the organization can responsibly fund, support, and execute.

Why this case study exists

It shows a disciplined approach to evaluating evidence and uncertainty, comparing credible strategic options, making conditional recommendations, supporting executive decisions, translating decisions into engineering delivery, managing resource and dependency conflicts, and establishing measurable accountability.

The approach

ASSESS
Establish the evidence, constraints, risks, and open questions.

▶

ADVISE
Evaluate credible alternatives, explain tradeoffs, and support a defensible executive decision.

▶

EXECUTE
Turn the authorized direction into realistic technical commitments, resolve dependencies, and measure outcomes.

> LEADERSHIP PHILOSOPHY
> The purpose of this exercise is not to prove that one recommendation is correct. It is to show how I evaluate evidence, make tradeoffs visible, support leadership decisions, and set the conditions for successful execution. A recommendation should change when the evidence changes. Accountability for delivery should not.
